Warm up – Place an object on the ground and with a grown up or brother/sister – use positional language to direct to the object. Language such as forwards, backwards, left, right, up, down, how many steps. Swap roles. If you want to make it harder, you could use a blindfold, but be extra careful!

Hold a mini sports day!

Decide on your events.

Long Jump – you can use a tape measure to measure how far each person in your family has jumped.

Javelin style event – choose something safe throw – use the tape measure to measure how far each person can throw the object.

Use a stop watch or timer on a phone to time who can run a distance in the garden the quickest.

Use buckets/bowls/hoops and put numbers on them, each person to have 3 balls to throw them, add up their points. Don't forget that higher number goes at the back.

Record the data in a table. Can you work out the difference between the shortest and furthest jump? The highest and lowest score?
